

Carole Hodges

Coach - Speaker - Consultant

Who Are Those People, Anyway? Unravel the Mystery

Have you ever wondered why some people seem to have dropped in from another planet just to mess up your plans? Perhaps you work with them. Maybe you live with them. And you may even do both. What you may not recognize is that each person has automatic behavior patterns and needs. In fact, you have your own personal style, which includes both your strengths and unavoidable blind spots. And where people's styles and behaviors fail to mesh, they can cause conflict.

This topic is available for short talks or a full- or half-day workshop.

Participants will learn:

- To recognize their own patterns
- To anticipate, and appreciate, conflict
- To communicate for results
- To teach others how to best relate to them
- To shift their own behavior for more productivity
- To delegate efficiently
- To enjoy the differences in people

Testimonials

"This workshop not only revealed my personal conflicts, but also provided the necessary tools for creating more powerful and meaningful personal & business relationships."

—DeVawn Porter

"You always speak from your heart and you fill our hearts with your passion. Always interesting how you weave your stories and present your ideas with warmth and compassion."

—Cherie Rogers

Carole Hodges is a life-long student of communication and relationships. She has worked with business leaders and companies to improve understanding.

Carole is the founder of The YES Connection, and her offerings combine the wisdom of many traditions with practical solutions for business owners and sales professionals.

Carole brings 20 years of experience as a corporate sales leader, marketing executive, business coach and innovator.

Her varied background includes investment banking, alternative energy telecommunications, internet marketing and musical theatre.

"Magnetic" and "energizing" are the words that best describe Carole's speaking style. Audiences enjoy her unique blend of introspection and success.

Book Carole Hodges today!

Call: 310.471.5219

Carole@CaroleHodges.com